is can be seized and the delver into this: the past will pull out as great a conglomeration of human profundities and trivialities as can be placed on that one of those where undated documents are kept the result is more than usually startling and primitive appeals and decisions will be haphazardly mixed with the finesse of modern diplomacy.

Librarian Lydecker of the archives recently made a grab of the kind described and secured four documents which are given below. The first chroncles a Dumasesque incident of palace fe about the '20's, which is humorous y pathetic in its endeavor to give Hawaiian history such lurid incidents as Dumas chonicled on behalf of the French. The letter is to Mathew Keuanaon from T mothy Haalilio and is to: Mathew Kelmannon, Governor

Last night about 3 a. m. while the King, John Young and myself were eating in the Kanila House, white man came in through the door way, when some one announced, "Sav! Here is a white man," I could not at the time after a word, neither could the King nor John Young because we thought death was intended. After awhile John Voring told Kekalmoku to quietly take the white man outside, which was done. The King then displeasure. I was very sorry of this because you and I are at the head of his household just now, because the King is now living in your house. I am troubled this whole night because of this fact that you will be aware of the fasts. icace and have the matter carried ile that contains the old documents per- innocent games. A psehological analyuing to Hawaiian history, and deduct sis of bowling is then given aimed to show the king and chiefs that the game herefrom as many of those documents was as innocent as childhood. Then > therefore when we were told to step our amusement and the way it was stopped by soldiers with gans who entered the house of tap our respected fellow members to cease bowling,

The protest is prolonged over a page and the following pungent paragraph

The Chiefs of these Islands know that they can put a stop to our games and even request of us to leave the Islands and in that way save themselves from paying their debts. It is a well-known fact that the people of these Islands owe great sums to the people who are getting up this petition.

It will be remembered that the first netition contained a paragraph accusng the chiefs of the same moffice and ntimating that the action was raken to e-scape their dobts. This potition is five pages long and goes carefully into the history of bowling, takes up it relation to matters of state and finally liverges to the dates of a citien. I winds up with an assurance that the are all willin gto obey the just laws but reserve the rights to protest "fearlevsly" against the laws they don't
